

Newsletter IEA Bioenergy Task 37: 3/2014

News from America

East of USA starts collecting kitchen waste

After New Jersey, New York City Council passed new legislation that would require large, food service establishments to recycle food scraps.

More

Rio Grande do Sul tests a new gaseous fuel called GNV Verde

The Gas Company of the Brazilian State of Rio Grande do Sul (Sulgás) presented GNVerde, an alternative and 100% renewable fuel, which is already being tested on vehicles

More

California joint venture to recycle waste cooking oil into biogas

The Encina Wastewater Authority has announced the award of a contract to J.R. Filanc Construction and partnership with Liquid Environmental Solutions to build an alternative fuel receiving facility that will recycle waste cooking oil and food waste

More

Ontario's Long Term Energy Plan, 'Achieving Balance' was released

Ontario's updated Long-Term Energy Plan, Achieving Balance, reflects input from thousands of Ontarians. The plan encourages conservation and provides the clean, reliable and affordable energy Ontario will need now and into the future. It balances five principles that will guide future decisions: cost effectiveness, reliability, clean energy, community engagement, and an emphasis on conservation and demand management before building new generation

More

EPA names landfill gas projects of the year

Through its Landfill Methane Outreach Program, the U.S. EPA has recognized three U.S. landfill gas-to-energy projects as being exceptional projects of 2013. LMOP describes its project-of-the-year designation as exhibiting innovation and creativity while contributing to job creation, providing energy savings and generating green power.

More

If you do not wish to receive the Newsletter further on please unsubscribe here

IEA Bioenergy Task 37